Before Judge Archbald yesterday morning the trial of Louis Benle, of Archbald, charged with having empezzied funds of THE TRIBUNE Publish ing company while acting as agent, was resumed. The amount of Behle's defalcation was fixed at $1 26 by Professor F. E. Wood, the general manager of the company. The defendant's counsel maintained that the proceedings should have been brought in the civil court in the form of an action to recover a debt. From the evidence the jury believed that Behle deliberately converted the money due his employers to his own use and after being out for a short time re-turned a verdict of guilty as indicted. The property owners on Maple treet, netween Pittaton and Stone street. avenues, regret having signed the petition to conneils, asking that a resolution be introduced for narrowing the roadway. Maple street, from Pittston avenue to Hamm court, is out of line with the rest of the street between that and Stone avenue. The present average width of the street is 55 feet; and the anhatance of the petition of the property owners is to reduce it to a uniform width of 30 feet, thereby adding 15 feet to the depth of the properties on one side and 10 feet on the other. Several of the signers are withdrawing their names. It argued that Maple street from its steep grade will never become a much traveled thoroughfare, cons-quently the amount of labor which the change would involve could not be compensated by any subsequent improvement in property values.

Withdraws in Favor of Messit. Prominently mentioned for secretary of the Total Abstinence Diocesan union of Scranton were Patrick J. Mes sit, a member of St. John's Total Abstinence society, and C. J. Ruddy, a member of St. Patrick's. It was ac ceded that the fight would simmer down to these two in the convention and no other aspirants for the honor came in the field. But Mr. Ruddy now retires from the contest and has thrown all his influence to Messit. The convention will be held in Wilkes-Barre
